

Bluebeam PDF Revu Simplifies how your legal clients work with PDF.

Small Business Trends online reported that lawyers are increasingly using PDF files because they are useful when negotiating and finalizing contracts. Documents are less susceptible to tampering than other file formats. Some courts require lawyers to file pleadings in PDF format. In early April, 2010, PDFforLawyers.com advised attorneys to move away from signing paper documents and use digital signatures instead. Bluebeam makes adding digital signatures simple. They can even electronically store, review, annotate, and distribute tens of thousands of legal documents.

Search

Search keywords in the current document, all open documents, or entire folders of PDFs. The results can be highlighted, redacted, or hyperlinked. Apply text annotations such as strikethrough or underline.

Redact

Select text images for permanent deletion from a PDF file. Also, permanently remove other document properties, metadata, bookmarks, or hyperlinks for greater security.

Bates Stamp

Headers and footers can be added to PDF files for page numbering, date stamping and Bates numbering. Include a prefix, suffix and a specific number of digits. Templates can be saved to consistently number PDF documents.

Edit

Don't waste time recreating PDF documents that need minor changes - edit them. Quickly and easily edit text contained in the PDF. Insert, reorder, delete and extract pages or combine several PDF files into one organized document.

Flag

PDF flags are the electronic alternative to sticky notes on paper. Use PDF flags to highlight sections, signature lines, or notes in a PDF document.

Digital Signatures

Create digital signature fields, certify documents and add digital signatures to PDF files. Bluebeam detects if a file has been altered after being signed so you can send your PDF with peace of mind.

Customize

Save custom stamps and notes in the Tool Chest and reapply with one click. Customize your interface to suit your needs or select the Legal profile to display toolbars for PDF redaction and headers and footers (for Bates stamping).

Current Trends

ABA Law Practice Today has a great article entitled "Our Paperless Office" about a law firm that went paperless. Below are a few helpful guidelines from the article to use when talking to your customers.

1. Plan the transition to go paperless.
2. Use PDF as the file format of choice.
3. Focus on new cases as a place to start.
4. Create a written procedure for scanning.
5. Adopt a consistent file-naming procedure (e.g., use date_then a description).
6. Implement a redundant and comprehensive backup system.
